

Cadet Flight Academy

Tue Apr 5, 2016

To All Cadets, Squadron Commanders, Cadet Leaders in Utah Wing;

UTWG is sponsoring a Cadet Flight Academy this coming July. The intent of this academy is to start cadets towards a goal of a private pilot certificate, and eventually a career in aviation, if that is their desire. The short term goal of the academy is to instruct cadets toward soloing an aircraft, although that is not guaranteed.

The Flight Academy will be held every day, all day, from July 6th through July 15th. Flight instruction will be conducted in the Wing's new Cessna 172 G1000 aircraft. The Certificated Flight Instructor's time will be donated. The cost will be $800, which will cover all aircraft time and ground school materials. However, additional funds may be solicited from various sources, so the cost might be reduced.

Four cadets will be chosen to participate, and must be at least 16 years of age before July 6th. Any interested cadet can send an email of interest to Lt Col Rand Woodward at randw@centurylink.net. After the cadet expresses an interest, further application information will be sent.

This is an exclusive program, much less expensive than commercial flight training, and it is hoped that motivated cadets will begin their aviation training in this manner.

Squadron Commanders of cadet and composite squadrons, and cadet leaders, please give this notice widest dissemination.

Rand Woodward, LtCol, CAP
Project Officer